THE THEATERS

The offering tonight at the Robinson Grand is "The Wrong Mr. President," headed by that clever colored entertainer, Salem Tuit Whitney, supported by the theater "Star Set" company. The offering is a musical comedy of the unconventional kind. It differs in many respects from contemporary productions in that its interpreters are artists who are equally well versed in the art of terpsichore and singing. In addition they have an excellent conception of broad and unobscured humor, the sort that appeals and makes life worth while living. Mr. Whitney has a peculiar style which does not permit of accurate imitation.

Adeline Genge is to have a two-month engagement at the Coliseum in London, where she intends to introduce "Robert the Devil."

Frances Kennedy, a young actress, who made a personal hit recently in Chicago, is to be starred in a play written especially for her.

Joseph and His Brethren is scheduled for a long run in Chicago next season, and at its conclusion the Lelander Company will star Pauline Frederick in a play suited to her talents.

William Faversham will present in this country, with the backing of a number of wealthy Americans a spectacular music drama called "The Miracle," which aroused great enthusiasm in London.

The Shuberts are going to organize a second company to present "The Midnight Girl," with Cecil Cunningham in the title role. "The Midnight Girl" will be one of the summer attractions in San Francisco during the Panama exposition.

Elsie Ferguson is one of the few actresses of prominence who was born in New York City. She was educated at a convent in France. Her London debut was made as Ella Seaford in "The Earl of Pawtucket," with Cyril Maude.

"Milestones" opened in London two years ago to almost nothing, at the premiere and then played to capacity the second night, and has done so ever since. It was the first play witnessed by King George and his family after their period of mourning, and he has seen it twice.

Following E. H. Sothern's declaration that he will retire from the stage at the conclusion of the season of 1915 comes an announcement that he will revive "Lord Dundreary," as developed from Tom Taylor's play, "Our American Cousin." This was one of the elder Sothern's notable successes.

Miss Gwendolyn Pates, who has been the leading lady with Pathe films for some time, is a new and attractive addition to the Selig Stock Company. Her husband, William Grew, an actor and producer, is also connected with the Selig Company.

"The Firefly" is to be produced in London, with Emma Trentini as the star.

Puccini is to compose an opera, using "The Darling of the Gods" for his book.

Charles Hawtrej has secured the English rights to "Seven Keys to Baldpate."

John E. Kellard is to have one of the prominent roles in "The Governor's Boss." The play is to be produced this month.

"Omar, the Tentmaker," with Guy Bates Post as the star, is to leave New York shortly for a trip to the Pacific coast.

Atlanta is to have a stock star season, with such visiting stars promised as Florence Roberts, Cyril Scott, Nance O'Neil and Robert Edison.

Oliver Morosco looms larger upon the American theatrical horizon than any manager now producing plays in this country. Manufacturing plays is the sum and substance of Morosco's work as he sees it. To this end he has a plant in Los Angeles, Calif., in the Burbank theater, where he has installed a permanent stock company and a musical organization that he employs alternately to suit his immediate needs. companies are carefully selected for their creative talents, as well as their adaptability to unusual demands. Mr. Morosco and his assistants read thousands of manuscripts in the course of a season.

Tomorrow afternoon and evening will be shown at the Odeon theater that greatest of all animal features, No. 7 of the series of "The Adventures of Kathlyn," entitled "The Garden of Bricks." Umballah having paid the ransom to the brigands takes Kathlyn's father back to Allah, trusting that the hungry tiger will finish the heroine and her friend Bruce, who are bound to its frail cage. Fate, however, wills differently for Kathlyn and Bruce have outwitted the brigands and escaped from the tiger and fellow Umballah. They arrive in the city happily unobserved during the excitement of the coronation ceremonies. Col. Hare is chained to the throne compelled to do the bidding of the arch-villain. Kathlyn disguises herself like one from "The Garden of Bricks" and thus gets into communication with her father, the unwilling occupant of the throne. The artful suggestion of Ramallah, that he be made to select a royal consort, gives Kathlyn the freedom of the throne room. When Umballah goes to the treasure room to get the priceless string of pearls for the bride of his puppet king, the leopards that guard the vault escape and invade the corridors of the palace. In the panic that follows Col. Hare escapes, likewise Kathlyn, but become separated in the confusion. Kathlyn hides in a coveted cart in the garden of the palace and for a time is surrounded by the prowling leopards.

Two companies will present "The Misleading Lady" next season.

Away and by far the greatest home talent that has ever taken place in Grafton was the gorgeous spectacular pantomime production "America," which was played by a cast of over 100 at the Brickman opera house last night under the auspices of the Women's Music Club. Long before the rise of the curtain "America" had already scored as a social success, as cabs constantly rattling over the pavement soon filled every available seat in the opera house with a rare array of beauty, dress and fashion and all of the boxes were occupied by the leading people of the city as were the reserved seats and the gallery—Grafton Sentinel.

Today is Famous Players Film Company's day at the Bijou. Jack Barrymore plays "An American Gentleman." A specially good Pathe Weekly will be shown to finish off a classy program. The five-cent day was so well taken Tuesday that it will be repeated Thursday. An especially high class program will be shown—"The Portrait," a two part beautiful soul stirring picture, "The Soul of Destiny," a fine Biograph and "The Story of Venus," an extra-classy Selig drama. Extra musicians will be added to the orchestra to make Thursday a bargain day.

conventions believes that it is desirable from every point of view that the action of the National Committee be ratified and made effective. All who are opposed to the fundamental principles of the Democratic party should join in the election of delegates to the national convention to be convened in 1916. The basis proposed for the election of delegates assures the states having the greatest number of Republican votes a larger proportion of voting strength in the supreme council of the party, and by the changes made in the rules the way is open for the separate states to enact laws for the election of delegates in primary election, and for the majority of the voters participating in the primaries to elect delegates who will voice the sentiment of the majority.

In proportion to its weight California redwood is the strongest conifer so far tested at the United States forest products laboratory. This strength is due to its strong fiber.

Year rings on the scales of fish are used in Norway and France to determine the age of sardines, whether they have reached their full growth and when they will spawn.

The Manufacturer's
Short Cut To Sales

Local dealers are awakening to the advantage of co-operating with manufacturers who assist them in making a market by advertising in the newspapers of their towns.

This very pulling-together spirit goes a long way towards making sales.

The response to this newspaper advertising is direct and highly profitable. No money is wasted in making a market where there is no distribution.
